

Our meeting this month was a viewing of the video by Crista Cowan on “Genealogy Methodology: Documenting Parentage.” Here's the link to the video for those of you who missed the meeting:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PCTzP398yew>

Crista's videos are very Ancestry.com focused so don't limit your search to that site. Familysearch.org has records not on Ancestry, and google search will find state and local databases full of genealogy information not on either of those huge sites.

There are several upcoming genealogy events you might be interested in:

Rootstech will have their 4 day national convention February 28th through March 3rd. There are five streaming videos each day, including one each day in DNA. No registration required.

<https://www.rootstech.org/live-stream-schedule>

If you missed Rebecca Kitcha Miller's talk on DNA she's repeating it the evening of March 22nd at the Upper St. Clair library. Registration is required.

<http://www.eventkeeper.com/mars/xpages/T/TWPUSC/EK.cfm?curOrg=TWPUSC&curMonth=3&curYear=2018&SelectedDate=3/22/2018>

The North Hills Genealogists will have their annual two day conference March 23rd and 24th. Here's the URL for their web site with information on the conference:

<https://northhillsgenealogists.org/>

This summer there are two sets of week-long sessions at the Genealogical Research Institute of Pittsburgh. Registration started February 14th so if you're interested check them out since they do sell out.

<http://www.gripitt.org/courses/>

For those of you who are newer to our organization, our web site has meeting announcements and notes for previous meetings going back three years. Check them out. They may help you get started in your search for your ancestors, and anyone can view the notes of meetings you missed.

<http://www.mtlebanonlibrary.org/306/Genealogy-Society>